R1 ANNI ADAMS

The nursery will sell a grown-up pattern of skirt in this spirited little frock. Suggested by Anne Adams, Pattern 4250 quickly, with the Sewing Instructions and lame the all-around pointed waist-fram a gay novelty. The front panel of the flaring skirt extends up into the center bodice in an arranging streak. The little collar, which may contrast and be contrast, may never look so with ric-ric long, but sleeves are equally smart. A fine idea is to use light contrast for the bodice collar and sleeves. Remember nicely fitting pintles or bloomers are included in this pattern.

Pattern 4250 is available in children's sizes 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 10. Size
2 fabric, bodice 5 1/2 yard 33 inch
fabric, bodice 5 1/2 yard 33 inch

Wealthy Author Pokes Jabs at Snobs in School

Film Story of Family's Visit to World Fair Presented.

NEW YORK, March 4 — You wouldn't expect a Harriman to poke sly jabs at a fashionable boys' school in a way that will nettle a lot of snobs, but that's just what John Harriman, son of Oliver and Grace Harriman, has done.

His first novel, "Winter Term," a work that is likely to make American anglophiles squirm, is being published next Monday by the new firm of Howell, Soskin & Co. They've labeled it "The American Mr. Chips" and "The Anti-Mr. Chips," to remind people that some American schools slavishly ape the manners and traditions of Eton and Harrow and other British schools.

"I went to St. Mark's school in Southborough, Mass.," Harriman said today, "but this book is not about St. Mark's. It's a book about several schools, and I had to write it."

Harriman, whose socially prominent mother is interested in legalizing lotteries, left St. Mark's because of a pulmonary weakness and was tutored privately, traveling in Egypt, with Africa, Greece and Italy. When the war ready for college he decided he was old enough to work. So he got a job with a banking firm in the south.

From 1925 to 1929 he was a reporter for the New York Evening World. Then he had seven years at a desk in Wall Street before going to Boston to write his novel.

"Some of the prejudices I have depicted in the book," he said, "were things I noticed at school, and some I observed later in Boston among the young sons of rich men — their snobbishness, their antipathy to the desire to be popular and admired by their own kind."

"Winter Term's" scintillating school is enthralled by tradition — the tradition of school, of "old boys," of family, of social standing.

"The novel is not all boys. The main story, in fact, is a lovely romance between a self-made master from the west — the other masters looked on him suspiciously because of his ideas — and the niece of the headmaster, a heady clergyman whose snobbishness were spent at Oxford. "I'm not campaigning for anything," said Harriman, who is 35 and married. "I just wrote a story of a life I knew."

YOUR HEALTH

What are the measurements for the ideal female figure about which so much is written in the magazines lately? There is no ideal female figure and no measurements. The measurements taken by the WPA are for the purpose of standardizing measurements for dresses and should not be taken as a concept of perfection. Figures differ with body types. A false standard of the female figure is set up in fashion plates. Tall, languid, feeble figures, very much too long in the leg and all apparently in the early stages of galloping consumption, tend to mislead, to their hurt, young women who would rather be dead than not in the fashion.

PRACTICAL JOKE ENDS IN DEATH OF TWO MEN
By The Associated Press
IRONTON, O., March 5.—Employees of the Lawrence county highway garage will appear Wednesday at a coroner's inquest to describe a "practical joke" which resulted indirectly in the deaths of Gifford Rucker, 31, mechanic, and W. T. Washington, 18-year-old Negro. Rucker and Washington were burned fatally last Saturday when gasoline exploded, igniting their clothing. W. B. Dilley, garage foreman, reported that Rucker was using the gasoline to remove from the Negro's face white paint which was smeared there as a prank while he slept on a cot in a small basement room of the garage. Two Swedish scientists have developed a method for locating deposits of several metals in the ground by analyzing the ashes from leaves of trees the roots of which have picked up solutions of the metals.

Experts Split on War Future

Military Men Agreed, However, That Conflict Is Deadlocked, No End in Sight.
By EDWARD E. ROMAR
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON — After six months of the European war, American military men are in substantial agreement that the conflict has reached a deadlock and that the way out is not in sight. Otherwise, officers whose duty is to form judgments unclouded by sympathies are divided both on the significance of events thus far and on the outlook for the future. They differ on whether a military decision is likely to result from the existing lineup of forces, and, without that, whether time advices from abroad, contends privately that the British and French face the greater peril from the long siege-war of attrition, starvation and nerves which they anticipate. Germany, by this estimate is effecting effectively the loss of overseas commerce by drawing oil and other supplies from Russian and Balkan sources, can defeat any prospective military thrust. It has a disciplined population less likely to crack under pressure than the British and French. At the moment, many professional observers see the most promising chance for a break in the deadlock in successful British-French efforts to rally allies and set up new fronts which will close the back door to Germany. There are some, too, who see the possibility of victory for a desperate Nazi "total war" onslaught by air.

But until there is a shift in the lineup forces, the contending powers obviously have a powerful checkmate or any threat by land, sea or air. To some qualified military men, the British and French appear most vulnerable in the air. The most authoritative information recently available credits Germany with more than 20,000 warplanes of all types, as many as the Allies have not been able to overcome the Nazi rate of production, despite help from the United States, and do not appear able to close the gap for a year or more.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!
The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It may just do you in the bowels. You feel sick, weak and the world isn't your friend.
It takes three good, old Calomel's Little Liver Pills to get the bile flowing freely in your bowels. You feel better, you eat more, you sleep better, you wake up in the morning feeling like a new man.

CHAPTER EIGHT
Frog Language

Tom's heart lifted. "Oh, then he speaks some time."

There was place next door on the other side. Lives there when he's with his folks in Alabama.

Tom's chin went up. Wouldn't it be just dandy for Bartell to have this place and double his property?

"I want to buy this whole section," he went on. "I want to reclaim the swamps and start him a new town."

Tom's heart went down and his face narrowed.

"Abe was pointing at the first one. 'That's the nursery,' he exclaimed. 'We put them in there to start sheddin' their tails. The row of pens here is, the schoolroom. Feed 'em and listen to 'em learnin' to sing."

"Over there," he pointed to a group on the edge of the farm where small bayous curved blue fingers in from the bay as though they would claw the earth to tidelands—"them's the breedin' pens."

Tom forgot Bartell as Abe talked, and her vision of little green frogs in long green rows was replaced with this imposing array of pens.

"These," announced Abe, pausing before the final group, "is market stock. Little fellows ought to be up today. Air's got a feel of spring in it."

"Abe—" Tom sidled up to the old man—"where is down?"

Abe didn't seem amused at her ignorance. "Down," he elucidated, "is at the bottom of the tanks. They snuggle into the silt for the winter, like as you snuggle into quilts when you're aimin' for a long sleep, some cold weather. We'll go in here." He opened a door softly and spoke in a whisper.

"You stand back in the corner there. Look out you don't tear your breeches on that there close-meshed wire and we're putting up new: gotta keep lizards and snakes from gettin' in."

"Snakes?" echoed Tom. "You mean... snakes?"

"Um," affirmed Abe with finality, as Tom closed the door swiftly behind her and looked at her ankles with apprehension. She'd never have worn half-socks had she known that.

"See the little fellows?"

Tom, looking at the pool, saw nothing but lily pads and the bulbous nobbins of water hyacinths. Then she saw that some of the nobbins had eyes.

"Ha," came a wheezy chuckle from the old man. "There's Little Sweetheart."

He shuffled to the far end of the pool and squatted on the edge, then started talking in a sing-song voice.

"Come on, baby. Come on, little fellow. Come on to Abe."

Abe's hands, stirred on a log, then with a powerful push of hind legs, sprang through the air to Old Abe's knees.

Tom's soundless laughter was checked in sheer astonishment. The frog knew Abe. Others began to come to his wooing voice, clustering in the short grass at his feet, their ridiculous eyes seeming to pop in adoration.

Tom's own eyes were popping a little as she began easing towards Abe. In a moment there was a machine gun splattering of forms striking the water.

"Talk To Them"

Abe looked up in mild disapproval. "You gotta get 'em used to you. Now sit here like this and talk to them."

Fascinated Tom squatted in excellent imitation of Old Abe and started her sing-song. "Come on, baby. Come on to Tom. Tom. Come on—"

"No, no!" scolded Abe. "You ain't shootin' dice. Don't snap your fingers. Take it slow and sweet-like."

Tom looked over the pool. Not a frog was in sight. She drew a deep resolute breath and began in honeyed tones. "Come on, lambsie-pie. Come on to Tom. Sweet babies."

Something stirred beyond the netting on the far side. Tom saw first, shining leather boots, next, will riding breeches, a leather jacket, a chin, gray-blue eyes dancing with golden glints of laughter. Allen Bartell.

Wouldn't he be the one to catch her making a fool of herself.

Tom snapped to an erect position. "Good morning, Mr. Bartell," she greeted in a frigid tone. "I was going to ask Abe to call you. I'd like to see a copy of Timothy Toland's will."

"I have one," Allen Bartell stopped; his face assumed a peculiar expression, grew red. His hands rushed to his numerous pockets, one emerged with a handkerchief and into this went a violent sneeze.

"I have one with me," he informed her with a rigid dignity which matched her own.

"Then, shall we go to the house? I suppose you will want to discuss certain business details with me?"

"Right," Bartell spoke with too much emphasis to suit Tom.

"They started off, Bartell limping, Tom proceeding with little hops and skips as she neared clumps of grass where snakes might be lying in wait for her.

Once Tom slowed her pace. She looked up to see the house before her; old, ugly, but sturdily built, its shabbiness half hidden by acacia trees, yellow-green with a promise of bloom. Behind were the silver-gray leaves of eucalyptus trees, a windbreak of sneezeberry.

"Why," she thought in surprise, "this is my home. I can have it painted. I can have it rebuilt. I can do any blessed thing I want to do with it."

She wanted to gather it into her arms, to protect it against this interloper who limped at her side, and into whose possession it would go if she failed to make good.

"I can't fail," she thought. "I must save this from him. He couldn't love it as I'm going to."

It was the highly competent Miss Toland, late secretary to A. J. Morris, general sales manager of Mid-Western Fruits, who faced Allen Bartell across the desk of the late Timothy Toland.

Bartell had never met this person. This wasn't the half-cowed child who had defied the Tolands through fear. This wasn't the girlish shopper reveling in her unexpected good fortune. Nor was this the blue-lipped passenger of the airliner who had staunchly refused to give in to her illness.

This young woman had business ability. She listened to him read each detailed proviso of the will. When he had finished she fired a barrage of questions at him, well-pointed questions. She made notes of his answers.

"You Asked For It"

Now she sat studying her notes. Suddenly she directed her attention at him. "According to this, Mr. Bartell, I must report to you at the end of the season. After a public accountant audits my books, you recheck, and if I do not show that I am making headway, you take over this business as administrator."

"The clause," corrected Bartell, "reads: 'The estate reverts to Allen Bartell.'"

Tom swallowed anger, fear, and something akin to hatred. When she spoke again, her voice was still brisk and impersonal. "Several thousand dollars have been set aside for the upkeep and improvement of this property; however, I am not free to expend it without first receiving your official permit. Is this true, Mr. Bartell?"

"It is."

"Mr. Bartell—" the business girl had disappeared, a roguish child with immense black eyes and wind-ruffled black hair leaned across the table and smiled at him—"I fear Great-uncle Timothy overlooked a few important details. There isn't a word in here authorizing you to tell me how many breaths of air per cubic foot I'm allowed to breathe."

Allen Bartell's face grew crimson. Quickly he lifted his handkerchief to hide the muffled sneeze and, further infuriated by the sparkling amusement in her eyes, he retorted:

"If I had complete jurisdiction over you, Miss Toland, your breathing would terminate permanently after one of your choice remarks."

"Are you trying to intimidate me, Mr. Bartell?"

Bartell arose, gathered his papers together and started out of the room. "Intimidate you?" he exploded, and limped away.

"But, Mr. Bartell, about the final transaction. You will meet me at the Alameda Bank at two o'clock."

"I will call for you here at one-thirty," he corrected, his voice arbitrary.

Tom, remembering a certain item listed in the will, lifted her chin. "That," she informed him loftily, "will not be necessary. I understand that I have a car of my own. I am quite capable of driving it to Alameda. I will meet you at the bank."

For the first time since they had entered the house the golden light came into Bartell's eyes. He exhaled his infectious smile. "All right," he agreed. "Just remember, you asked for it." And he turned towards the kitchen door.

Tom turned towards the door at the opposite end of the hall, puzzled over the change. Did Alameda have some innate traffic laws which would land her in the city bastille?

She opened the front door, remembering she hadn't seen the view from this exposure. It was more than she had hoped to find, this glorious old garden. It was overgrown, a vast cavern of shrubs and trees. Tom recognized only the palms by name. A tall hedge sheltered her from the country road.

Then she went swiftly down the steps to sit on the gravel path and press her face into a mass of purple violets.

At that moment, warm sun beating down, the fragrance of violets intoxicating her senses, she could have loved even Allen Bartell. She turned her head expectantly as footsteps sounded.

They were not Allen's. A vision was coming down the path; a girl. Golden hair fluffed about her head. A peasant frock of yellow, pale blue and rose twirled like a garden of spring flowers under the wind as she walked.

Polish Government and Army, Broken by Invasion Reassemble in France

WASHINGTON, March 5.—While the Polish army was being dropped to pieces by the invading Germans, the Polish government, thrown into chaotic confusion, retreated until all hope was lost, and then crossed the border into Rumania.

President Ignace Moscicki is now in Switzerland.

Marshal Edward Smigly Rydz, the virtual dictator of Poland and commander-in-chief of the army, is interned on a private estate north of Bucharest.

To replace those officials, Polish leaders organized a new republic with the "capital" at Angers, France.

The new government, which is recognized by all nations except Germany and Soviet Russia, is headed by President Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz, former president of the Polish Senate.

The premier and commander of the Polish military forces being organized in France is General Wladyslaw Sikorski, who organized the Poles in 1914, served as premier until he was discharged with Marshal Smigly Rydz.

The national council of 24 members is headed by Ignace Radziewski, world famed pianist and modern Poland's first premier.

Embassies and legations, with greatly reduced staffs, are maintained as before the war. In addition to the embassy in Washington there are Polish consulates-general in New York and Chicago.

The Angora government revenges course of payments by the Anglo-French allies, interest on the gold deposit in London, some trade balance in neutral countries, and earnings of 14 merchant vessels which are under charter to the allies.

TWO GIVEN FINES FOR DRUNK DRIVING

Each Assessed $100. Deprived of Right To Drive.

Given Anderson, 37, of 130 Fies avenue and Fred Chapman, 45, of near Marion were fined $100 and costs each on drunken driving charges by Municipal Judge Hazen yesterday when they changed previous pleas of not guilty to pleas of guilty. Judge Hazen also suspended Chapman's driving rights for one year and those of Anderson for six months.

Anderson was arrested by city police Sunday night after a car officer said he was driving struck a utility pole at Cass avenue and Fairfield street. Chapman was arrested by state highway patrolmen Monday night following a two-car collision on Route 23 south of Marion in which two women motorists were injured.

Officials pointed out that the court usually increases the period of driving license suspension in cases resulting from accidents in which another vehicle is damaged or motorists are injured.

Mrs. W. S. McCheney of Marion, Mrs. G. W. Sergenti, Mrs. Adeline Klinefelter and Betty Winslow were guests.

SPORTSMEN HEAR CONSERVATION TALK

Fish Management Agent Tells of Work in County.

Lloyd Volk of Columbus, fish management agent for the Ohio conservation division, was the principal speaker last night at a meeting of the Marion County Fish & Game Protective association at the Eagles hall. Some 300 persons attended.

Mr. Volk commented that the state is seeking to give Marion county exceptional attention in fish management, improving rivers and small lakes.

Slides of work in the county were shown by O. H. Neimeyer of Prospect, county game protector, who also joined Mr. Volk as a speaker.

Ten life membership buttons in the association were presented as follows: Sheriff Fred F. Miller, Frank Bradley, John V. Ruth, Z. B. Houghton, Roy Abel, A. T. Goetting, Charles Lowe and Mito Hill of Marion, Mr. Neimeyer and Mr. McCoy of Waldo.

It was also voted to present a life membership to Fred Hoch, owner of a farm west of Marion where the association has a game refuge.

Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Ralph Corbier. Carl Lehnner presided.

SEVEN MORE CANDIDATES FILE FOR COUNTY OFFICES

Seven more candidates were listed today at the board of elections among official entries in the May primary battles. The filing deadline is set for a week from Friday.

Latest to file were:

Frank Furniss (R) of Morral, for county representative.

Elmer Smith (R) of Marion, for clerk of courts.

H. H. Beringer (D) of Waldo township and O. J. Hord (R) of Marion township, for county commissioner.

V. M. Dutton (R) of Marion, for county recorder.

J. W. Harruff (D) of Marion, for sheriff.

Sylvester Larkin (D) of Marion, for probate judge.

Cooperative Herd Plan Launched in Marion Co.

Unusual Farm Project First in This Section of Country; Radio Topic Tomorrow.

A cooperative herd improvement enterprise, aided by the farm security administration and including nine western Marion county farmers and a Marselles resident, will be the subject of a broadcast over radio station WLW tomorrow at 12:35 p. m.

The herd improvement group, first of its kind in this part of the country, according to E. C. Sleeth, rural rehabilitation supervisor for the county under the FSA, has high ambitions, many of which are expected to be acted tomorrow.

Taking part in the broadcast, which will be on "Everybody's Farm Hour" with Ed Mason of WLW in charge, will be Mr. Sleeth and Ormer D. Warner of Route 37 and Leslie O. Baker of Route 30, both west of Meeker. These two men, together with Mr.

Sleeth, are responsible for founding the enterprise, which it is hoped will ultimately provide the members with a fine, purebred foundation for their herds.

Plan Wins Recognition

The FSA office at Indianapolis considers the enterprise so unusual that it plans to distribute publicity on it, through several states Mr. Sleeth reported. The principal objective of the group is to build up their herds by establishing purebred basic animals and then developing their herds gradually to whatever size can be handled.

Although plans for the future are not certain, the group hopes to have a display at the county fair this year. Later they may inaugurate "cow test" work along with their herd improvement plan. The members will deal only in

The members have already purchased two purebred bulls, raised under Ohio State university supervision, for $150 each. A loan from the FSA made this possible. The bulls, Channell Farm Advisor No. 62056, born Nov. 27, 1938, and Channell Farm Advisee, born Nov. 23, 1938, are now on the Ormer Warner farm at the junction of Routes 30 and 37 west of Meeker. Mr. Warner, as manager of the bull service, will keep them there. Members of the group will pay $3 for service and others will pay $5.

To Purchase Heifers
This spring, probably in April, when the Ayrshire association sales are held at Columbus, each member will buy one or more purebred Ayrshire heifers which will be owned individually by the members. They will cost anywhere from $100 to $150 each.

Laying the groundwork for introduction of the purebred Ayrshires, each member has had his present herd tested for Bang's disease and tuberculosis. The tuberculosis tests are already completed and two of the three Bang tests have been made.

Dr. F. J. Morris of Morral, appointed by the state to make the tests, reported that only four of the 72 cattle were definite reactors in the first test. Two or three were doubtful. Report on the second test has not been received.

After the group has been operating for a while it is planned to organize the Marion County Ayrshire Breeders association, which would be open to any resident of Marion county. The bull service, however, would be separate from any such association.

Animals Carefully Chosen

The bulls incidentally were picked out by the members after a tour of central Ohio and were recommended by Ohio State university experts. The bulls, now yearlings, will be alternated to avoid inbreeding. They will be in service probably three years before new ones will be needed.

State offspring of the cooperatively owned bulls will be owned individually by the members but they cannot be sold as bulls without the consent of the entire group. They can be sold for beef, however, or kept by the owner as bulls. These rules will keep the stock from being scattered loosely.

Female offspring are also owned by the individual members and may be sold without obtaining permission of the other members.

For the present the group is set up with Mr. Warner as manager. He will receive $100 a year for his work and also 10 bushels of corn or its equivalent each year from each member for maintaining the bulls.

Profits or losses from the enterprise will be shared by the owners.

Originated Idea
The idea for the enterprise started with Mr. Warner and Mr. Baker, who took it up with Mr. Sleeth. Some four or five meetings were held to get the plan shaped up, talks being given by Russell Knoop of Columbus, representative of the community and cooperative service division of the FSA, and also Prof. S. M. Salisbury of Ohio State university, secretary of the Ohio Ayrshire Breeders association.

Other members of the group, in addition to Mr. Baker and Mr. Warner, are:

L. Hoyt Buckingham of Marselles, Dale Warner of Route 37, Hugh James of Route 30, Hoyt C. Leeth of Route 37, Clarence E. Lightfoot of Route 31, Harold O. Ricker of Dry Lane road, W. Milford Shuster of Rubins road, E. W. Varden of Wildcat pike.

SAWDUST CAVE-IN KILLS CROTON YOUTH

Mishap in Delaware County Fatal; Father Finds Body.

Special To The Star
DELAWARE, O., March 6.—Funeral arrangements were being completed today for 17-year-old Francis Lasser, a senior in Croton High school, who was buried alive in a sawdust cave-in Monday near South Condit.

Coroner A. R. Callendar of Delaware county said death was caused by suffocation.

The youth went to the mill in eastern Delaware county, owned by Tim Dewitt, early in the afternoon and parked the small truck he was driving near the pile of sawdust. It is believed he had started to shovel the saw dust in the truck when the large pile caved in on him. He was buried.

When he did not return home after a reasonable time his father, Sherman Lasser, went to the saw mill to investigate. The empty truck was found and, according to reports, the father believing that his son had gone into the village, began shoveling saw dust into the truck.

The father's shovel struck one of the boy's legs. It is believed the boy had been buried about three hours.

The Lessers were using the saw dust to bed sheep at their farm in Licking county, only a short distance from the Delaware county line.

Kiwanis Egg Hunt Set for March 23 at McKinley Park

Kids, here's the word you've been waiting for!

The Kiwanis club's going to stage its fifth annual Easter egg hunt on Saturday, March 23, at McKinley park.

Announcement of this annual event which draws thousands of children and grownups was made today by Harold B. Kennedy, chairman of the club's special events and social committee.

As in previous years there will be a special show at the Ohio theater this year. Saturday, March 16, has been set for this show, to which admission will be two fresh eggs—accents on "fresh."

Because of the early Easter season and unpredictable March weather the time of the hunt has been moved up to 10:30 a. m. Should the weather be inclement on the morning of the hunt, it will be staged on Monday, March 25, at 4:30 p. m.

Forty-eight prizes will be distributed to hunters who find the specially marked eggs.

The hunt will be for all children up to and including 12 years of age. The committee in charge of providing the eggs, of which Russell D. Luke is chairman, will make arrangements to assure every child of receiving at least one egg. Each of the approximately 80 club members will furnish three dozen eggs, in addition to the theater party "admissions" and eggs which the club will buy.

On the general committee with Mr. Kennedy are J. J. Huebner, Charles A. Klunk, Dr. G. G. Nuetzel and Harold Nussbaum.

In addition to committee chairman already mentioned, there are Mr. Klunk, egg dyeing; A. W. Kette, transportation; James C. Woods, publicity; Charles E. Sechrist, grounds; Fire Chief T. J. McFarland and Police Chief W. E. Marks, patrol duty; Dr. F. L. Thomas, first aid; Zeb Stout, prizes.

MAYOR SNARE NAMED DELEGATE BY MASONS

Will Represent Ohio in Dealings with So Dakota.

Mayor Russell C. Snare was presented a commission as representative of the grand chapter of Ohio Royal Arch Masons to the grand chapter of South Dakota at a special convocation last night of Marion Chapter No. 62 R. A. M. About 125 men from Marion, Bellefontaine, Findlay, Fremont, Laflue and Buxton were present.

The commission an honor extended by the grand chapter was presented by Chester J. Foster of Bellefontaine, deputy grand high priest of the grand chapter of Ohio. As representative Mayor Snare becomes the first delegate from Ohio in all matters between the Ohio and South Dakota grand chapters.

The meeting honored past high priests of Marion chapter of whom 11 are present. A telegram was read from Milton B. Dickerson of Baltimore, Md. who served in 1930 and is the oldest living past high priest and a letter was read from the second oldest, William J. Lee of Dallas, Tex. who served in 1907.

Those present to be honored and the years they served follow: Harvey T. Gracely, 1925; Frank W. Little, 1924; L. E. M. Smith, 1925; Clyde C. Smith, 1926; H. I. Grady, 1927; Fred L. Cahari, 1928; L. G. Smith, 1931; John E. Davis, 1932; Clarence L. Price, 1931; A. G. Un- capher, 1935; Robert F. Williams, 1930; Mayor Snare, 1937; R. G. Williams, 1938 and Ralph F. Cur- hart, 1939.

The incumbent high priest, J. Y. Apl, presided. Principal speaker was Forest Troop of Horeb chapter at Westerville, a member of the faculty of Otter- beln college.

GROTTO MAKES PLANS FOR CEREMONIAL AND PARTY

Friday night April 5 was set for a family night party and April 20 for the annual spring ceremonial at a meeting of Kadgar Grotto last night. D. L. Clark, Charles Tate and Charles Bloom- ingdale were named an entertain- ment committee and Ernest Wil- lied, Jack Gonor and Thomas Hurley the refreshment commit- tee for the family party. Several applications and petitions for re- instatement were balloted on. Fol- lowing the session the members joined the council for a lunch in the dining room.

To Give Talk At Retail Dinner

ST. MARY ALUMNI BANQUET DATE SET

Football, Basketball Teams To Be Honored.

Thursday, March 28, is the date set for the annual football and basketball banquet to be sponsored by St. Mary's Parochial School Alumni Association. Plans for the affair were made at a meeting of the association last night.

Plans are being made to accom- modate 200 or more persons. Eu- gene Fitter, president of the as- sociation, announced St. Patrick's day this year fall on Palm Sun- day and for this reason no social event has been arranged.

The banquet will be held in the ballroom at Hotel Harding with Bernard Maloney as toast- master. Athletic awards will be made to both the football and bas- ketball teams by Bernard Bircus, coach. Honored guests will in- clude Rev. Father William J. Spickermann, pastor, Rev. Father Arnold J. Farrell, assistant pas- tor, and Rev. Father Edward J. H. Summe of McCartyville, former assistant pastor here. Recognition also will be given other leaders and the class having the largest number of lettermen present.

Mr. Fitter will serve as chair- man of the general committee in charge of plans for the banquet, and he will be assisted by the following committees: Miss Mary Tobin, Miss Violeta Bush, Miss Mary Moloney, Miss Rosaline Minso, decorations and orches- tra; Robert Kelly, Robert McAn- drew, Mrs. John Parish, Miss Vir- ginia Letter, Jack McAndrew, James Drake, Ralph Nicolosi and Mier Theresa Tobin tickets.

Three Kayoes Highlight 14 Golden Gloves Openers

Five Win by Technical Knockouts, Six by Decisions; Over 450 Fans on Hand at Shovel.

By CHARLES HOSTETLER
Marion Star Sports Editor

FOURTEEN matches comprised last night's inaugural program of Marion's sixth annual ring classic, the 1940 Golden Gloves boxing tournament, which opened a four-night stand at the Marion Steam Shovel sports arena.

Upwards of 450 spectators, an unusually good house for the first performance, witnessed the well-rounded elimination card. They roared their approval as the shon pure fighters, pummeled each other in quest of ring laurels.

Sleeper punches found their marks to end three bouts in bona fide knockouts. Five scraps wound up as technical kayoes. The remaining six went the full three rounds to a decision of judges.

15 from Marion

Majority of the 23 initial-round contestants were local youths, 15 of them hailing from Marion and nearby. Largest foreign contingent was Richmond's five-man delegation. Three others came from Crestline and one each from Bucyrus, Fostoria, Ashland, Caledonia and Galion.

Next round of the tournament will be staged tomorrow night, with semi-finals and finals next Tuesday and Thursday. Full programs are assured with 10 to 15 bouts listed on tomorrow night's schedule, officials reported. The complete entry list totaled 60 when weighing-in ceremonies took place late yesterday.

From top to bottom, light-heavies through flyweights, every aspirant was in there punching from the opening bell. Some enjoyed the advantage of a little more ring experience, but in most cases the difference was cancelled by a zest for battle. The card started slow but picked up interest at a rapid tempo and left spectators more than satisfied.

Some Slow Class

Some few of the glovesingers displayed considerable ring cleverness. Many of them had been in training for the last several months at the Y. M. C. A. The workouts went a long way in helping youngsters win opening matches.

To name the evening's top scrap would be near suicide. Several of the matches ranked almost equal in spectator interest. Fans with a preference for bloody ring warfare enjoyed a field day. Not less than half-a-dozen battered noses spoiled crimson.

Credit for the quickest knockout went to Joe Benedict, Harding High school athlete. He had his local foe, Buck Moler, down for the count at the end of 90 seconds. Joe looped upper cuts in machine-gun fashion to Moler's head, mowing him down for the seven-count before allowing him away for keeps. Benedict had a three-pound advantage in the middleweight duel.

Another Fast One

Forty seconds had elapsed in the second round when James Gilmore landed a sleeper punch on the jaw of James Pfeiffer, in a welterweight duel between local contestants. Gilmore's reach gave him an edge. Pfeiffer fell into the ropes. His neck caught the lower strand and he hadn't fully recovered minutes later in the dressing room.

Frank Young was the conqueror by a knockout in another all-Marion fight. Harold Chapman was the victim. The middleweights threw an abundance of wild haymakers before Young gained rights and left on Chapman's head to cut him down 50 seconds after the second round opened.

Most unfortunate act of the evening came at the close of a lightweight duel between Ray Howman of Ashland and Monroe Fields of Richmond. It was after he lost by a hairline decision that Howman hurled his loose glove at referee A. J. Wagner and then added a few harsh words for good measure. He drew only a round of Bronx cheers.

To his credit, however, was the fact that he pushed the fight early in the opening round. Had he continued the pace instead of loafing through the second and third he might have won handily. Fields straight-arm sent Howman back on his pants for the only knockdown of the mele.

Galion Boy Edged

Merle Kleinknecht of Galion was the victim of an unpopular decision, losing the judges' nod to Tom Walker of Caledonia in their light-heavy duel. Merle's rapid-fire barrage had Walker weary in the first but the Caledonian staggered into the second and

THE MARION STAR

Big Ten All-Star Cagers Named by Coaches

Bill Hapac, Illinois captain and leading conference scorer, was the only member of last year's honor five to win a position on the 1940 Big Ten All-Star basketball team, selected for The Associated Press by the coaches. Hapac, a forward, and Fred Beretta, Purdue guard, were unanimous choices. Paul Armstrong of Indiana won the other forward position; Gene Englund of Wisconsin was named to the center post and Dick Klein, Northwestern sophomore, won the other guard spot.

RALPH'S CAGERS TO BID FOR CLEAR TITLE TONIGHT

Industrial League To Close Season at Y. M. C. A. Court.

Ralph's Snappy Service cagers, with a share of the championship already clinched, will be shooting for a clear claim to the Industrial league title when teams meet in season-ending games tonight at the Y. M. C. A. Ralph's team faces its toughest rival the second-place Bradley entry in the featured games at 8:30. Key Town Camp engages Bibler Vaults in the 7:30 opener and Midway Restaurant tackles Marion Business College in the 9:30 nightcap.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 6 — Hot Stove League: Detroit is using the "dead" ball exclusively in training and the Tigers are pounding the daylight out of it. The Athletics were flattered no end when a delegation of White Sox drove 40 miles from Pasadena just to watch them practice. Boston writers in the south like what little they've seen of young Dom DiMaggio. If that Rudy York-for-Cecil Travis deal isn't hot again, why are they betting Hank Greenberg will be back on first 30 days after the season opens? ... Wes Ferrell is showing the boys a much more impressive hook than he had with the Yankees last year. ... Somebody had better get in line for Joe Medwick is packing up to go back to St. Louis.

One Act Play

Tony Galento visited Norfolk and was introduced to the Rev. Ralph Kyle, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance church.

The Rev. Kyle: See this little book, Tony? It says your body is worth only 84 cents.

Galento: Whaddya mean, 84 cents? (He pulled a huge roll of bills from his pocket and flashed it in Mr. Kyle's face.)

"That don't look like no 84 cents to me."

(It didn't to the minister, either and he made his exit quietly.)

Rue De Sockerue

Max Waxman, manager of Red Burman, charges Mike Jacobs and Jimmy Johnson are trying to freeze Burman out of the heavyweight picture and claims the white heavyweight title for Red.

Maxie Rosenbloom has been signed for the comedy role in Rudy Vallee's new air show. ... New Jersey will O. K. an outside referee for Max Baer and Galento if they want it.

Sports Cocktail

The Marysville (Mo.) teachers went undefeated in two major sports this season—football and basketball. ... Alice Abbott, the Dickinson college co-ed, who crashed the men's tennis team last year, is on the shelf with a broken ankle. ... Sherrod Smith, the old big league pitcher, has been appointed captain of the guard in the Georgia State pen.

CAREY TO SEEK SPOT IN TOURNNEY SEMI-FINALS

Will Meet Beltsville In Opener Tomorrow Night.

Carey, Bluffton, Fostoria St. Wendelin and Beltsville will be vying for spots in the semi-finals of the Class B district tournament when they engage in a renewal of tourney warfare tomorrow night at Carey.

Carey, 21-20 victor over Salem, engages Beltsville, conqueror of Rawson, 42-19, in the 8 p. m. opener. An hour later Fostoria St. Wendelin meets Bluffton. Fostoria's Saints downed Lexington 43-30, while Bluffton was smothering Chatfield, 54-45, in initial games.

The winners will meet in Friday's semi-finals which brings together Tiffin Calvert and Beltsville in the opposite bracket.

Indians Have Another F

Young Paul Calvert Displays Fireball in Ea ing; Grimes Due in Camp.

By The Associated Press
FORT MYERS, Fla., March 6—Paul Calvert, a 21-year-old Monticello, is the current "another-feller" hope in the Cleveland Indians training camp.

Calvert, a bespectacled 180-pound right hander has had no professional experience. He was signed on the recommendation of an unofficial scout while pitching semi-pro ball in Montreal.

The rookie became the talk of the camp by his display of blinding speed in hitting practice during Coach Johnny Nease's first day in his place of the youth and Manager Oscar Vitt has indicated he will give him a thorough test in a regular-Yanigan game first Sunday.

If Calvert follows in the footsteps of Bob Feller, the club's youthful ace, he will have to overcome a jinx, that has nipped Bill Zuber, Johnny Humphries and Mike Nymick. All were labeled "Another Fellers" on their first showings and all failed to come through in big league style.

Oscar Grimes, the Minerva, O., infielder, is due in camp Friday in the company of President Alva Bradley. Grimes underwent an operation in Cleveland last month for the removal of a piece of cartilage in his knee.

All the Indians hurlers except Feller, Mel Harder and have taken turns in the pitching. Harder won't go to the better conditioned.

It's been 15 years Cleveland southpaw 15 or more victories son, but the Tribe hopes this year in Harry Eisenstat and Milnar won 14 in Eisenstat, used primarily roles, six. Smut Buffalo of the league with the recommendations from Steve O'Neill.

Joe Shaute posted for the Tribe in 1924 land portsideer who been few since then.

Akron's Luke Sewall listed as a coach, is batting practice and the club's "emerge" Roffie Hersley is a shape and looks for year, but Frankie P. replacement, is still and Hank Helf and the other two receiver, don't seem to be company.

Operated by an electric handle, a maneuver used as brush, nail and massager.

...AND ANOTHER BIG SURPRISE

IN A MAN'S LIFE IS HIS FIRST

Triple Test Worsted

The chap above has just had the shock of his life. He was partially prepared for it, of course—but only about a third!

The three great virtues of Triple Test Worsteds are like triplets—you expect one, you're surprised when you get two, you're overwhelmed when you get all three. For this reason, Schaffner & Marx suit offers a rare combination of (1) Style, (2) Quality and (3) Value.

There are other suits as good-looking as Triple Test, and presumably there are other suits that will give you just about the same day-after-day, month-in-month-out service as we've never seen any other suit with both the attributes at anything like Triple Test's price.
